

A38 Saltash Tunnel Technology upgrade

16 April 2026 update

The team is continuing testing of the new lane control system. We'll soon be testing the display symbols (red crosses, white arrows, and green arrows) on the new overhead lane signals.

Testing will take place overnight (7.30pm – 6am) on Monday 20 April and Tuesday 21 April.

During testing, traffic might be held briefly at temporary traffic signals. This is for the safety of drivers to avoid confusion while the symbol testing is taking place.

Please continue to stay in lane, follow the current traffic management and not the overhead signals.

We expect testing of the overhead signals to be complete in the coming weeks. The next step will see the tidal flow lane control system switched on. We will inform you in advance of this happening.
